

"I Don't have Time for this..."

Inspiration of hope from a young woman who beat breast cancer & helped others instead...

As she lay on my healing table Lisa looked at me & said "I don't have time for this...I have a husband a, young son & other things to do..." she was certainly determined that she wasn't going to concede to some cancer cells in her body. She was diagnosed with stage 3 breast cancer. She believed she was going to completely heal...she surrendered to God...she was a warrior...& she was going to heal...& heal she did...& so much more.

I remember as I placed my hands on her feet to begin the reiki session...I immediately had a vision of her rising up in front of me & turning to ashes.... It startled me & "I thought for a moment oh no...please don't let this woman die & go to ash..." I called in Jesus, Mother Mary the angels & guides & implored their help. The session was warm & powerful.

Everywhere I went I felt heat & healing. It was quite peaceful. When the hour was complete...Lisa shared with me that she had a vision of the "Phoenix Rising" ...I was not familiar with that term but have come to learn it is symbolic of a "rebirth" ...just like going to ashes & rebirthing something new. (I understood in that moment what I saw earlier in the session) I found both our experiences fascinating & Lisa just as fascinating...

Over the years in my healing practice, I have observed what sets apart the people who are successful in their healing whether that means healing on the physical world or healing to have everlasting life...it is all healing. Less fear & more faith...a real belief in something more...a real understanding of unconditional love.

Lisa stated to me "I don't have time for this" her words were powerful! She set her intention & stated in clearly to the world. "I have a husband & a young son...I need practical help... someone to cook & clean, prepare meals, babysit while I go to appointments, have chemo & beat this cancer..."

Lisa went on & had many more reiki sessions, she went on & started a foundation called "Floyd Warriors" that provides meals, home cleaning & practical help for those in need.

That was over 10 years ago now...

It was Easter time, when she was going through treatment & she couldn't get out to create a basket for her son. Now, her organization provides hundreds of Easter Baskets every year for those kids whose parents are undergoing treatment...

Lisa is just one example of the healing that can take place when you mix energy healing, conventional medicine & more importantly faith to heal yourself! Yes, you can!
